Ms. Alagna's News

September 12-16, 2011

Hello Parents-

Another fantastic week in the P3 room! We have missed Gavin this week and can't wait for him to return from vacation!

This week we have talked about Rachel and Joseph being blessed with their baby Jacob. We also have been learning about healthy bodies. We are all going to eat our vegetables and fruits so that we can grow up to be big and strong!

Next week we will be learning about the coat of many colors that Jacob gave to Joseph, learning about how rainbows appear and how to care for others. We will be wrapping up on the letter C and will start talking about the number 6.

I am also working on getting the rest of the lessons planned up to December. As soon as I get those typed up, I will be sending it home so that you can know exactly what we will be covering each week.

Thanks for all who sold magazines! Ayden, Alex and Samantha were very nice in sharing a pixie stix with their classmates that didn't get one. So wonderful to see little ones sharing!

Chapel is Wednesday at 8:30am. Come and join us!

Also, if each child could bring in an old pillowcase on Monday for our craft project this next week. We will be making our own colorful coats out of the pillow cases. They can be any solid color you'd like.

Thank you so much for your patience and being such great parents! Each child in our class is a special blessing each day!

God Bless!

Ms. A :)

Happy Birthday Owen!
