

Reading

Lewis and Clark and Me
By Laurie Myers

This is a historical fantasy that is based on real events in history, but it is a story that could never really happen – in this case, because a dog can't write. As you read, look for the facts on which this story is based.

Who will join Lewis and Clark on their journey of exploration?

Math

We will be reviewing multiplication facts along with addition and subtraction for the entire week. On Friday, we will have a quiz over these concepts.

Science

We will begin an Earth Science unit on Rocks and Minerals. There will be a lot of outside information that your student will keep in a folder at school. I will let you know well in advance of an upcoming test on this unit followed by a trip to Mammoth Cave.

Social Studies

We are beginning to review the North East. We will learn the location of the individual states and we will memorize the capitals. Every student is helping Nicholas learn these facts because he has lived in Canada. In return, "Nico" will be teaching us details about Canada. A good trade-off.

Pre-School Buddies

We are using 4th and 5th graders again this year to help walk P3 and P4 students to their classrooms each morning at drop off. So far the little buddies are still being walked to their rooms by parents. This will soon stop and we will need the BIG buddies more than ever. Thank you for all that are helping.
